Burnham Update

As most of you will know by now, on the 7th of June in an attempt to rescue them, Martin Burnham went to be with the Lord after over a year in captivity. His wife Gracia sustained a bullet wound to the thigh but is now back in the USA with her 3 children. Please continue to uphold Gracia, Jeff, Mindy and Zach in your prayers. "We might not leave this jungle alive, but at least we can leave this world serving the Lord with GLADNESS" Martin Burnham

Blame Dan for the title!

The finish line

We have almost finished our first year here at New Tribes Mission! Time has really flown by but the Lord has really challenged us in many areas of our lives. One of the most challenging questions that we have asked ourselves is "Have I got a religion or a relationship?" Bible school is no guard against growing cold in our relationship with the Lord. However, we have really loved discovering more in the Scriptures and feel that we have benefited so much from taking time out to study God's word that we would recommend that you do the same.

Our plan for next year is to continue with the Cross Cultural Communications Course which is geared to teaching students linguistics, and how to present the Gospel to people of other cultures.

Mother and Baby

Just to update you on how the pregnancy is going. Rachel had her 20 week scan the other day and it appears that everything is fine, praise God! You may be aware that Rachel has had back trouble throughout the pregnancy which has been very painful. She has been for physiotherapy every week and has seen a measure of improvement for which we can thank the Lord. But we would ask you to keep praying for her that her back will continue to improve. The photo to the right is the 14 week scan.

Holiday Club for Kids

During the missions conference 14th - 16th June here at NTM we ran a "Storykeepers" holiday club for 3 hours each day for the children whose parents were in the conference. We had about 35+ kids both mornings and we made lanterns and fish badges, heard stories of Jesus and played loads of games. The kids loved it! "Better than Sunday School" one of them said.
