The Hulley Herald

It's with mixed feelings that we write this final prayer letter before we leave for our new life in Papua New Guinea. On the one hand we feel sadness and loss at the prospect of not seeing those we know and love for a number of years and yet we have great excitement in our hearts as we contemplate the task that lies ahead of us. It has been 4 years since we were initially challenged to get involved in taking the Good News to unreached tribal people and here we are at the brink of this adventure with God after years of training and planning.....

We have been truly overwhelmed by the support and prayers of so many people. God has raised up those who have a real interest in our work and we are encouraged by His faithfulness in every aspect of our lives. We really want to give God the glory for all that He has supplied us with. Several people have expressed an interest in being part of a support group that will be our point of contact in the UK regarding matters for prayer and practical ways to help us in this ministry. A good friend of ours has volunteered to design our own web page to give people up to date info and prayer points (www.hulley.org).

One of our prayer requests is for co-workers. During the months that we live on the base in Goroka we will be thinking about possible tribes to live and work amongst and we will also need to team up with other missionaries. NTM is committed to sending teams of missionaries into new tribes for the purpose of sharing the work load, fellowship and expertise. There are two couples already living on the base that have expressed an interest in working with us in a new work and we would value your prayers regarding this decision. We already know these folks having spent time with them in the training programme so it would be a blessing to work with them. Please join us in praying for a team that will be characterised by love and unity so that division will not hinder the work.

We praise God for answered prayer regarding the breast cancer that Dan's mother was diagnosed with a few months ago. After surgery the doctor said that the tumour was contained and had not spread into the lymph glands thus no further treatment is required.

Dan went on a weekend skiing trip to France with 3 other guys from our Church. The plan was to leave on Friday afternoon and arrive early on Saturday for two days skiing, but a few miles from the resort the car broke down

They waited 5 hours for a recovery vehicle to collect the car and a further 3 hours standing in the snow waiting for a taxi to take them back down the mountain. It was a real lesson in patience and learning to cope with unforeseen circumstances. At least they got one days skiing out of it!!!

Ben's Box

Here I am in my beautifully decorated headdress all ready to go to 'Papa Noo Ginee.' I can't wait to go on the big aeroplane that mammy and daddy tell me all about. Some men came and took some of my books and toys in a box to go on the ship.

I like to play pretend and be David fighting Goliath the giant. I'm a good aim too, so look out! I also think it's fun to go to the toilet now as I'm a big boy - 'that's clever mammy!'

Prayer
&
Praise

- Thank the Lord for those whom God has raised up to get involved in partnering with us both by prayer and practical ways.
- Praise God that Dan's mum is doing well after breast cancer surgery
- Praise God that our visas were granted with no problems.
- Pray for our family and friends as we leave in a few days time.
- Pray for God's direction on what tribe we will work in and for co-workers.
- Pray that Ben will cope with the long flight and adjust well to his new life.

Hey you!

Sending Stuff

We would love to receive letters and e-mails from you but please be aware that with any parcels we will have to pay customs tax which may cost even more than the item is worth! Also no food items can be sent into the country (so no Cadbury's choc for Rach, unfortunately!). Please make sure that e-mail files are no larger than 100Kb. If you do want to send a parcel, please write on it N.C.V. (No Commercial Value) as this may save us paying tax.

Finances

If you would like to support us financially, it is best to send cheques to the address below and make them payable to 'New Tribes Mission', but earmark it for Dan and Rachel Hulley. For regular gifts, a standing order can be set up with your bank and the forms are available again from the address below:

Tel: 01472 387700

UK taxpayers: please tell NTM that you would like to reclaim the tax for us and they will do so.

Please note that from the time that you send a gift, a letter of acknowledgment may take 8 to 12 weeks to get to you due to the time taken for the gift to get through to us in PNG.
